

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates. The cable ownership cap is a crucial element of our democratic media, and it should not be weakened.

I expect the FCC to protect the public interest and to insure that rules to maintain ownership diversity of media are maintained. How about paying attention to the public comments for a change? Since when has it been the role of the FCC to promote the welfare of media conglomerates?
